

TATTOO AFTERCARE INSTRUCTION

Healing time for tattooing is important to rely on the expert guidance of your artist for the proper aftercare. The long life of your tattoo depends upon the care you give it. And the infection may occur minimal if aftercare is followed appropriately.

1. Keep the tattoo bandaged at least one or two hours and do not rebandage the tattoo at any point.
2. Do not shave, rub or pick the tattooed area until completely healed and not to touch the tattooed site first washing your hands, gently clean tattooed with warm water or mild soap.
3. Do not use any petroleum or vaseline based products. These products can lead to the loss of inks and your skin can not breathe.
4. After 1 or 2 weeks, the tattoo may start to peel (this is normal). Do not pick or peel the skin away. Let it fall off naturally. Color of your tattoo may fade while processing, but it will come back when healing is completed.
5. You may notice that the tattoo beginning to dry up after 2 weeks. Apply ointment and lotion (without perfume) softly to the tattoo to keep it moisturize.

Note: If after 48 hrs more cruel complications occur (increased redness, swelling, and discomfort at site or beginning fever), contact your personal physician immediately.
